CONGREGATIONALISTS LEAD. End the Missionary Year Out of Debt -Other Denominations Report De-

American missionary societies clos-ing their books this spring handle $8,-500,000 a year. Indications are that together they will report deficits ag-gregating $1,000,0000 said a New York paper Monday. This is a record never before approached, because societies never made such budgets as they do today. The Presbyterian Board of never made such budgets as they do today. The Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, handling $1,885,000 a year and one of the very largest foreign societies in the world, began last year with a deficit of $65,300 and fell short $226,800 more, making a total deficit to be reported at Chicago this month, when its general assembly meetsfi of $292,150.

Missions fell behind its appropriations $138,000. This is the first deficit in fifteen years. The causes are given as disturbed financial conditions and criticisms of the board made by people who had heretofore been friends.

In Episcopal churches of this city and the country yesterday the Episcopal General Mission Board, handling $1,500,000 a year, authorized a statement that a deficit of $300,000 is imminent. The board began last year $197,000 behind, its apportionments of the previous year having failed by $294,000. The trouble seems to be too large appropriations, and not actual falling off in gifts.

Baptists have had an almost similar experience. The home society began the year $31,000 behind, and ended it with $72,000 deficit. Presbyterians, South, handling about $80,000 a year, came out nearly even and Congregationalists in their home work are the only ones closing the year without debt. They did so, however, only because of large personal gifts obtained at the last moment, and after a year acknowledged to have been the hard-

After this testimony had been before the committee, it was claimed that Mr. Hewitt conversed with many third persons in the absence of the other members of the committee and that he stated at several times that the land was only worth about $700 and had no value for bungalow purposes.

a speaker at Shop Meeting. General Secretary Edwin Hill of the local Y. M. C. A. gave a very inter-esting address to the men of the Thermos company Monday noon un-der the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. The audience was large and attentive and appreciated the strong and inand appreciated the strong and in-structive address the speaker gave. Some of the selections played on the Victor machine were, Sometime We'll Understand, and Teil Mother I'll Be There. Secretary Hill selected the text, "Perfect Peace," from Isalan xxvi: 3, and among some of the things he said were:

This is a great text for us to live in and the experience it suggests is quite possible for all of us. It is well to think of the source of the peace promised; "Thou" who are the Almighty One, Thou who created all things and who art the beginning and the end the first and last. who art the beginning and the end, the first and last.

Thou, from whose all-seeing eye we cannot hide even though we might go to the uttermost parts of the earth; Thou who art a Father as well as a great God; a Father who loves everyone of His children, and "like the father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him" and it is a blessed thing that "He kneweth our frame, He remembereth that we are dust;" this is the kind of a being we are dealing with and who is personally interested in every one of us. "Thou wilt keep him;" what a great thing it is to know that there is One who can keep us amid all the changing scenes of this troublesome lift and not only can He keep us, but He can not only can He keep us, but He can keep us in "perfect peace."

In this world, where there is so much discord between the nations, and the individual, it is refreshing to know that we can find a place of peace.

One Place of Peace. It is well to remember that there is but one place of peace; men seek far and wide for peace of mind and heart, and, alas many fail to find it because they seek for it in the wrong direc-tion; money cannot give it; travel cannot furnish it; position, however cannot furnish it; position, however prominent falls to provide the remedy; the only antidote for the unrest of this old world is close and constant touch with God and that is why the passage makes the condition of peace a mind stayed on God. The trouble is we stay our minds on almost everything elst but God; we allow things pertaining to this brief existence that we call earthly life to so monopolize our call earthly life to so monopolize our time and thought that we spend little time on thoughts of God and eternity. Oh, that we might more and more stay our minds on the things of God, and in shaping these lives of ours after the great pattern, Jesus Christ, who said that He came to show us the who said that He came to show us the Father. If we thus stay our minds on him, we will come to know him more, and thus we will learn to trust him absolutely and we will scatter sunshine as we walk through lift and the turmoil and strife will give way to the demination of the Prince of Feace who said so sweetly "My peace give I unto you." unto you.
